The Chief Information Officer – Solutions and Partners 3 contract (CIO-SP3) is a government-wide acquisition contract for the next generation of information technology (IT). CIO-SP3 provides flexibility, speed, and access to all things IT, including data science and analytics, digital services, IT management, and cybersecurity. It can be used by any federal, civilian, or U.S. Department of Defense agency to fulfill mission-critical requirements.

New ideas help government work better. Our innovative IT solutions improve stakeholder engagement, information sharing, data analysis, and information protection. We assemble multidisciplinary teams to:

- Engage citizens and employees across the entire digital ecosystem—web, mobile, and social media.
- Drive smarter decisions, policies, and programs through data mining, predictive modeling, visualization, and discovery.
- Enrich the "bench-to-bedside" clinical treatment development cycle and provide top-quality health data for informed clinical and policy decisions.
- Manage cybersecurity threats with customizable solutions that ensure the safety of confidential data and IT assets.
- Advise CIOs for better planning, management, and measuring of their organizations, IT investments, and digital services.
- Deliver digital services and complex systems through a right-sized approach for each situation, including Agile, DevOps, CMMI, responsive design, and customer journey mapping.

The ICF/CNSI Team

To provide full capabilities across the CIO-SP3 scope, ICF’s team includes multiple subcontractors with experience supporting federal IT and health informatics projects. We have partnered with CNSI, a recognized leader in the implementation and management of large healthcare programs nationwide. CNSI’s capabilities include imaging, outsourcing, operations, and enterprise resource planning.
